DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
South of Deal's Right on Casson Neck is a small early house which has been greatly remodeled over the years. It is a one and one-half story house with two old sections, Both of which originally consisted of the same fenestration. There is a door and window with a dormer above on each section. From the proportions of the window in the taller portion it appears to have had 9/6 sash. The dormers have 6/6 sash. The brick piers have given way to a complete foundation of concrete block. There was probably a fireplace in the larger portion of the house between the two sections. Onto the south end has been added a hip roof addition and a one and one-half story extension. The walls of the dwelling are covered with asbestos siding and many of the windows have 1/1 sash and 2/2 sash.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This dwelling is not one of the more significant buildings of the County. It represents, in its early form, the additive principle which is part of the vernacular tradition. It was similar to the two lower portions of Deal's Right.
